WE, THE CLASS OF 1939, DEDICATE OUR YEARBOOK TO YOU, OUR SPONSORS. FOR THREE YEARS, YOU HAVE BEEN OUR GUIDING STARS; AND WITH YOUR INDISPENSABLE ASSISTANCE, WE HAVE SUCCESSFULLY REACHED THE FIRST MILESTONE IN OUR CAREERS.

TO THE "39" CLASS

June marks the end of a pleasant experience as your class adviser. It has been a satisfaction to help you to solve problems related to your class activity.

Problems are not best solved by rash judgments, but by orderly thinking. Our universe is governed by regularity and precision. Man can predict the sunrise and sunset, the appearance of the stars, and the change of seasons. These effects are the result of a definite cause. I hope that with the facts you have learned in High School you have also cultivated an appreciation of this relationship of cause and effect.

Your experiences have proven that success is usually preceded by hard work and sacrifice. May you work hard and achieve serenity, contentment and happiness.

THEME EXPLANATION

THE stars have gripped the interest of men for thousands of years. It is because of their universal appeal that we have chosen them as our theme. From the study of them has emerged a pseudo-science, Astrology, which professes to determine the influence of heavenly bodies on the affairs of men.

To aid in the understanding of this science, one must think of the heavens as a great circle divided into equal parts, just as the face of a clock is divided by numbers which mark the hours. Each of the divisions, of which there are twelve, is represented by one of the twelve signs of the Zodiac. Astrology holds that there are twelve types of individuals corresponding, roughly speaking, to these twelve signs; that the planets play a major part in determining these personalities; and that the position of these planets at the moment of one's birth determines his horoscope. Even the Astrologers advise us, however, that the stars incline but do not compel.

A N O D E

The spacious firmament on high,
With all the blue ethereal sky,
And spangled Heavens, a shining frame,
Their great Original proclaim.
Th' unweary'd Sun from day to day
Does his Creator's power display;
And publishes, to every land,
The work of an immortal hand.

Soon as the evening shades prevail,
The Moon takes up the wondrous tale;
And nightly, to the listening Earth,
Repeats the story of her birth;
Whilst all the stars that round her burn,
And all the planets, in their turn,
Confirm the tidings as they roll,
And spread the truth from pole to pole.

What though, in solemn silence, all
Move round the dark terrestrial ball;
What though no real voice, nor sound
Amidst their radiant orbs be found;
In reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice;
Forever singing as they shine:
"The hand that made us is divine."

—Joseph Addison.

CAPRICORN

December 23rd — January 21st

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Goat. Those born under it are usually energetic, ambitious, and self-centered, but very conservative. As business partners they prove to be unsympathetic, but reliable; not generous, but just and exceptionally accurate. They are domestically inclined, but unable to make lasting friendships.

In writing and speaking, they are eloquent, but lack originality. Capricornians are born workers; they serve but are not servile. Like the goat, they pick their footing for themselves and find their own path to their goal. They make the best of circumstances and their capabilities. One born under this sign finds his best friends under Taurus and Virgo.

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by a Man Pouring Water. Men and women born strongly under this sign live for humanity. They pour themselves out unto the world and they reap the reward which the world gives to imparting knowledge to others and makes an excellent teacher or surgeon, but a poor mathematician. He has an abundance of common sense and is too practical to be visionary. He is kind, generous, and courageous. He writes smoothly and pleasantly but is too superficial to be a really good author. His best friends will be found under Gemini and Libra.

PISCES

February 20th — March 22nd

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by Two Fishes, one swimming upstream and the other downstream. Pisces people are agreeable companions, charming in manner and interesting in mind. They are generous to a fault—very often without regard to wisdom. When it comes to practical matters, however, they are likely to be dreamers; they may even be drifters. They are essentially lazy, but most domestic.

They are in no sense egotists; in fact, they are peculiarly lacking in self-esteem. Very often, they are the life of the party. Their fine minds and finer instincts make them love beauty and desire to attain it. Their best friends are born under Cancer and Scorpio.

This sign of the Zodiac is the Ram, a sign of leadership. It is ruled by the aggressive and war-like planet, Mars. There could scarcely be a combination of influences more likely to produce a person of courage, ambition, and force. Those born under this sign are energetic, proud, aggressive, self-willed, and impulsive.

They have vast initiative, but lack persistency. Aries people are pioneers and idealists, the Sir Galahads of the world. They are good conversationalists and can be depended upon always to provide entertainment. They are diplomatic, honest, and generous in pecuniary matters. They can progress, but not change radically. Their best companions are usually found under Leo and Sagittarius.

March 22nd — April 21st

TAURUS

April 21st—May 22nd

This sign of the Zodiac is the Bull. A typical Taurian is warm, friendly, affectionate, and passionate—but not demonstrative. He has tremendous vitality, both physical and mental. He is exceedingly fond of comfort and luxury. Taurians possess many of the finer qualities of the bull, because, like him, they are quiet and easy going until aroused; and then, they are very excitable.

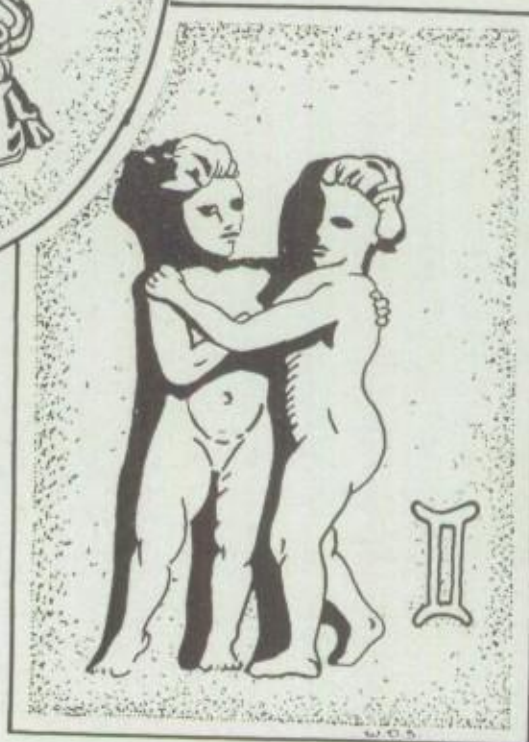

They are inclined to do things their own way and to allow others to do the same. They are good in executive positions and are sound, conservative financiers. Taurians tend to succeed in such pursuits as manufacturing, mining, or building. Because of the influence of Venus and the Moon, they may also turn to less practical vocations. They are successful as journalists or public entertainers. Their best friends are born under Virgo and Capricorn.

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Twins. It is ruled by Mercury, the Winged Messenger of the Gods. Gemini people are often brilliant, versatile, flexible, and changeable; sometimes diletantes, often flirts. Gemini people are in truth twins. The two sides of their character war with each other. They make sudden digressions and these are often annoyingly unexpected. Those born under this sign are, however, charming and stimulating. Their own mental agility generates mental agility in others.

They are adaptable to circumstance because of their rapidly changing opinions. When times are good, they make good administrators of public affairs. Their social success is assured and their business success depends upon their cultivation of self-control and concentration. They will probably find their best friends born under Aquarius and Libra.

CANCER

June 22nd — July 24th

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Crab and is ruled by the Moon. It is the domestic sign. Cancer people love their homes and are expert in all matters concerned with it. They are sensitive and thin-skinned, suffer greatly from fancied slights, are likely to worry and be nervous, and crave change and adventure; but at heart they are home-loving and home-making. Some of them make excellent explorers, sailors, and sea captains. They are idealistic, poetic, romantic and imaginative, and oftentimes lazy. They make inspiring teachers or guides. Very often, they take the line of least resistance. Their best companions are usually born under Pisces and Scorpio.

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Lion. A typical son or daughter of Leo is the masterful, high-minded type, possessing great executive ability. They may exercise this ability in either business or social life. They are born to rule and they see to it that they do so. It is essential that they keep their desire for authority within reasonable bounds; otherwise, they may become arrogant and domineering. Most of them have magnetic personalities. They are more merciful than just; prone to anger and to excess pride; are excitable and accessible to flattery. Their best companions are born under Aries and Sagittarius.

for authority within reasonable bounds; otherwise, they may become arrogant and domineering. Most of them have magnetic personalities. They are more merciful than just; prone to anger and to excess pride; are excitable and accessible to flattery.

They are very rhythmical and are fond of dancing. They are gentle and amiable. They are inclined to procrastinate and tactics and make good scientists, philosophers, and clergymen. SCORPIO

October 24th — November 23rd

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Eagle and the Scorpion. It is a strange combination of strength and subtlety. Those born under it possess strong will power, are direct and to the point, and are selfish and often critical and uncompromising. They are great seekers of the truth and make excellent sales managers, captains of industry, musicians, and military and naval officers. Because of complete co-ordination between their hands and their brains and also because of their clear headedness and detachment, they make capable surgeons, dentists, mechanical engineers, mining operators, and machinists. Their best friends are usually born under Pisces and Cancer.

This sign of the Zodiac is represented by the Man with an Arrow and is ruled by Jupiter. Those born under the influence of this sign make friends quickly and are loyal to those to whom they become attached. They are temperamental, expansive, altruistic, idealistic but practical, and honest and sincere. They are very often easily swayed by the opinions of others. They are usually successful as bankers, brokers, managers or political workers. In athletics, they are very outstanding—especially so in anything featuring horses or dogs. Very often Sagittarians are presumptive of their positions. They don't always fulfill their promises. A Sagittarian will usually find his best companions in those born under Aquarius and Aries.

On April 21, 1939, a hilarious musical comedy of college life was presented in the Reading High School auditorium. A trio of senior girls, Betty Werley, Jane Schaeffer, and Jane Reber, co-operated in writing the comedy which was presented to three capacity audiences.

From the time the curtains parted until the last note of music died away, the audience was held breathless by exhilarating music, spectacular dancing, and inspired acting.

In the roles of Cynthia Dixon and Gregory P. Mason, Claire Taylor and Charles Thompson were superb. The husky beauty of Claire's voice and the full richness of Charles' thrilled the audience. The supporting cast was custom-made for the production, and the chorus and orchestra arrangements were well-planned and beautifully executed.

"How 'Bout That!" is the story of mistaken identity. Gregory A. Mason, a well known "dead-pan," is tragically mistaken for Gregory P. Mason, a very handsome young fellow. When Cynthia makes a blind date for a sorority hop with Gregory P., she thinks she is about to have a date with that obnoxious individual, Gregory A. This all leads up to a very ludicrous state of affairs and a very brilliant finale which takes place at the sorority ball where Cynthia learns of her mistake. As is the want of musical comedy, we find the curtain falling on a happy ending.

The entire production was under the able direction of Mr. Willard H. Mohn; James Zwally and David Postetter arranged the orchestrations, with James Zwally also conducting the orchestra. Mrs. Helen K. Hess supervised the vocal music, and Glenora Bigony directed the dancing.

PENN'S DREAM

Each year, the senior class has the privilege of drawing to a close its three years of work at Reading Senior High School by the presentation of a pageant. The 1939 pageant was a portrayal of William Penn's ideals as he applied them to the founding and organizing of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. His fair dealings with the Indians, his toleration of all religions, his belief in democratic government, and his wish for the furthering of education in his colony were portrayed in the successive episodes.

We saw Penn receive a grant of land from King Charles II of England. We saw the Quakers at Pennsbury bid their beloved governor farewell. We saw the Moravians at Bethlehem celebrate Christmas at the Sun Inn. We looked in on a Lancaster County farm during an Amish wedding. We spent a typical evening within a stockade with the aggressive, pioneering Scotch-Irish; and we heard Chief Logan deliver his famous address to the white men.

"Penn's Dream" was presented dramatically with beautiful song and twinkling toes to add zest and color to the production. An Irish jig, a stately minuet, an Indian dance of friendship, and a Swedish folk dance all contributed to make "Penn's Dream" the gayest, most colorful pageant that the Castle has witnessed in years.

"Penn's Dream" was written as a project in composition by a regular English VII class under the direction of Miss Mildred Runyeon, Mr. William Fink, and Mr. LeRoy Garrigan.

SENIOR CLASS TRIP

At the fabulously early hour of 6:45 A. M. May 27, several hundred seniors together with their friends clambered sleepily aboard an out-bound train. They were on their way to one of their last days spent together as high school seniors—the annual class trip.

Arriving at Jersey City, and boarding the steamer "Westchester", they sailed way up the East River, down again to New York harbor, and up the Hudson as far as the famous Palisades.

Dancing, sightseeing, promenading, were all on the eight-hour sailing schedule. Among the main features of the trip were a close view of the World's Fair from the harbor, the Statue of Liberty, Governor's Island, Welfare Island, Hell Gate and Brooklyn bridges, and New York's breath-taking skyline.

Ten-thirty that night found the same group of travellers arriving home weary—but with happy memories of a perfect class trip.

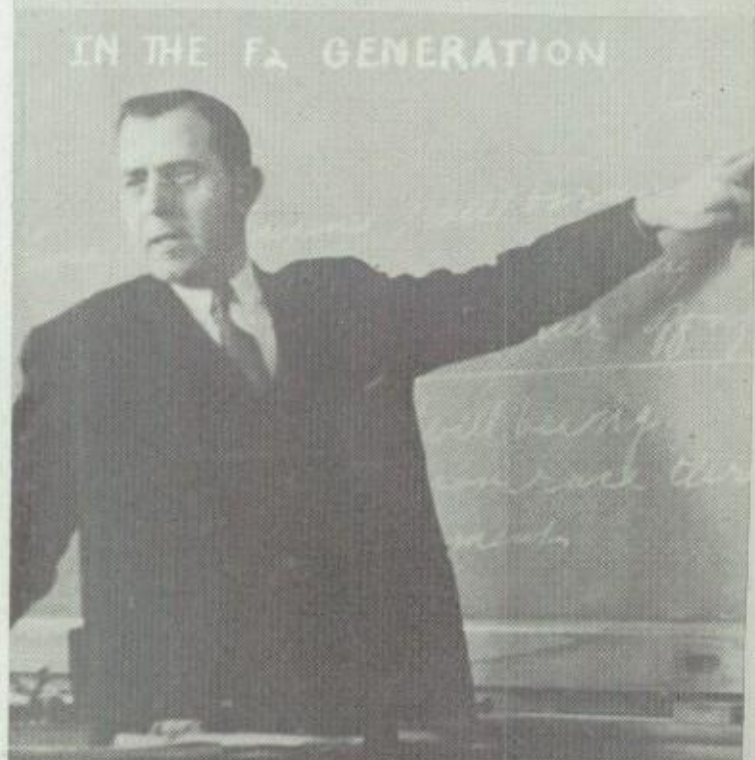

THE STARDUST RENDEZVOUS

On the evening of the fifth of May, in an enchanting night setting, several hundred seniors glided to the smooth strains of Jack Kenny and Paul Blankenbiller's orchestras. It was the nineteen thirty-nine senior prom—"The Stardust Rendezvous". This gala event was hailed as one of the outstanding social events of the season—it in no way fell short of expectations. Close to a country home, a garden setting, made colorful with dozens of Japanese lanterns, a stone wall, and tiny white picket fences bordered by dwarf pines, cleverly concealed the identity of the boys' gymnasium.

A stroll past the bubbling fountain and well from which punch was drawn brought the merry-makers into a virtual forest of tall pines whose tops nearly touched the shimmering stars of a midnight blue sky suspended overhead.

In this beautiful and inviting setting, an atmosphere of gayety prevailed; and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed by all who attended.

"The Stardust Rendezvous" will long be remembered as one of the most beautiful and colorful senior proms ever given by a class graduating from our school.

ORGANIZATIONS

READING Senior High School has organizations which the student can join in one of three ways. He may be elected to them by his classmates; he may join them voluntarily; or, because of his superior abilities, he may be selected by the faculty to join them.

These organizations include all student government organizations, the staffs of the school's publications, and certain social and honorary societies. Membership in them affords the student opportunity to develop himself as a leader and, at the same time, enables him to cooperate with his classmates and the faculty in serving and managing the school.

Organizations of this kind constitute a very important part in the curricula of the students because of the practical experiences they afford.

1939 IN ACTION

With violent vigor, the lads and lassies of the "Arxalma" staff went about creating this book which you are now enjoying (?). Believing in the theory of the division of labor, our editor, Marjorie, sent Betty and Jack to a corner to develop something exclusive in features. Into another corner, she chased the scatter-brained senior section, Jane, Henrietta, Naomi, Dick, and Sara, to publicize and glamourize seniors. The clubs were placed in the lily-white hands of Eleanor, Grace, and Shirley. The glorifying of our illustrious faculty was left to Edna and Pat. With heartfelt misgivings, Marjorie entrusted the developing of our muscle-bound athletes to those lackadaisical "he-men", John and Rut. Violet, an athlete of renown herself, praised her feminine competitors. Then the aesthetic side of our starving art staff was permitted to blossom forth, creating veritable masterpieces. Diminutive Doris; carrot topped Bill; our beauty contest winner, Peggy; reticent and talented Fotios; and pint-sized Warren produced and arranged the eye-filling beauty that graces these pages. The apple of Mr. Master's eye, his favorite pet, John Auman, was our business manager.

J. Auman

The organization and direction of our work was capably handled by Marjorie, the girl with the sunny smile, and Mr. Master, the best bowler this side of nowhere. Their combined ingenuity and experience and the staff's never-ending cleverness made this the BEST "Book of the Year" (We Hope).

EVERY Tuesday, Reading Senior High School students enjoy a period of club activities during which they pursue their avocations. Each student makes his own choice from a wide range of clubs which includes, among many other interesting avocations—dramatics, art, gymnastics, dressmaking, and science. The individuals in each club are united by a common interest and are under the direction of a capable faculty member.

Besides engaging in activities only in the high school, many of these clubs also participate in outside activities. These clubs provide for the students a period of enjoyable diversion and also further extra-curricular guidance.

READING HIGH RIFLE CLUB

Vice-President: LEO LORENZO

THE musical organizations of Reading Senior High School offer many varied activities to those students wishing to develop themselves musically. For many years our school has won state-wide recognition for the excellence of its musical presentations.

The instrumentalist finds great pleasure in joining one of the orchestras or bands or in becoming a member of the Ensemble Club. The A Cappella Choir, the Choruses, the Quartets, and the Glee Clubs provide ample opportunity for the vocalist to pursue his musical interests.

Wherever there is music, there is an atmosphere of gaiety. We hope that its sweet strains will always pervade the halls of our school.

FOOTBALL EDITORIAL

Starting the season with a green squad, the coaching staff of Reading High again produced a powerful team. Their record of five wins, three losses and one tie did not indicate their true strength. The Rockets beat such worthy opponents as Allentown, York, and Lancaster; and it was only thru numerous injuries and bad breaks late in the season that they lost by close scores to Bethlehem, Easton, and Pottsville. This year's team did much in upholding the fine athletic standards of the Castle on the Hill.

KNIGHTS TROUNCE STROUDSBURG (25-0)

Under a steady downpour, a green Reading High squad splashed over a muddy field to drown Stroudsburg High by the decisive score of 25-0.

Tommy Smith starred for the 1938 Rockets with his spectacular gains. Smith tallied twice, while Rhodes and Hilzinger each crossed the end stripe once. Acting Captain Harry Forred played a great game in the role of blocking back. The boys in the line deserve much credit for their fine blocking and rugged interference.

A squad of thirty-nine Knights saw action in the fray; and, although inexperienced, they showed promises of developing into another great team.

ROCKETS CONQUER WILLIAM PENN (7-0)

The stars again shone favorably on the gridiron ventures of the Red Knights when they invaded Fager Field to conquer William Penn, 7-0.

Reading's lone touchdown came in the third quarter when Frankie Burns, diminutive quarter-back, raced 65 yards to cross the William Penn goal line. Dusty Rhodes converted the extra point to make the score 7-0. The two teams were very evenly matched, each threatening the other's goal line once. In the second quarter, William Penn had the ball on Reading's seven yard line with four downs and goal to go when Reading put up its "stone wall" and held them back.

Acting Captain Harry Forred, Tommy Smith, and Frankie Burns played the entire game without relief. This was the first conference game of the season, and the Red Knights showed promise of living up to the standard set by the 1937 varsity.

ROCKETS TRIM CANARIES (12-0)

Before a crowd of 10,000 cheering spectators in Albright Stadium, the inspired Red Knights smashed through their traditional rivals, the Allentown Canaries, for a 12-0 victory.

Held scoreless for the first two periods, the Rockets gained the upper hand when Tommy Smith intercepted a pass on his own 20 yard line and, behind splendid interference, raced 80 yards for a touchdown. Cheers were still echoing throughout the stadium when the second touchdown was scored. Allentown's attempted punt from their own ten-yard line was knocked high into the air by Legs Kramer and was caught by George Dracha who staggered over the goal line to make the score 12-0.

Since Coach Rock's arrival three years ago, the Knights have not been defeated by the Canaries in football competition.

KNIGHTS DEFEATED BY BETHLEHEM (21-18)

Fighting gamely, the Red Knights dropped a close decision to the powerful Bethlehem eleven, 21-18.

Liberty High scored early in the first quarter on a seventy-one yard march down the field. The Rockets retaliated in the second quarter, scoring twice on forward passes—one from Hilzinger to Burns and the other from Smith to Guldin. A forty yard pass increased the Liberty lead. By scoring in the third period, Bethlehem apparently put the game on ice. Seemingly out of the game, the Knights came back to score on the most spectacular play of the afternoon. Intending to throw a pass, Smith faded back to his own twenty-five yard line; but unable to find a receiver, he decided to run with the ball. Evading tackler after tackler, Smith dodged his way to the Bethlehem 35 yard line. Seeing that he was about to be tackled, he flipped the ball to Burns who was close behind him. Taking the perfectly aimed lateral, Burns raced the remaining 35 yards for the final touchdown of the game.

The Knights journeyed to Bethlehem keyed to a high pitch for the game and gave a really splendid performance against a very powerful eleven.

READING OVERCOMES YORK JINX (25-6)

Showing a bewildering aerial attack, the Knights blasted the York jinx by the lopsided score of 25-6. This surprising victory gave the Rockets their third conference win and marked the first time a Rock-coached eleven had beaten York.

The first quarter ended with the Rockets on the short end of a 6-0 score. From then on, the knights held the upper hand. Long passes took the Rockets to the goal line where short line plunges carried the ball over. The four touchdowns were scored by Gromis, Smith, Rhodes, and Montz. Burns converted one extra point.

A huge throng of Reading High rooters did much to inspire the team. Twenty-nine players saw action in the fray and each played a bang-up game.

KNIGHTS DRUB LANCASTER (33-0)

Showing the greatest offense of the season, the Rockets had little trouble in racking up their fourth conference victory. With the whole traveling squad of thirty-five players seeing action, the game was more like a warm-up skirmish than a league game.

With very little opposition, the Knights scored in every period, tallying five touchdowns and three extra points. Reading's aerial attack accounted for three of the touchdowns. The alertness of Thompson, a substitute end, in falling on a Lancaster fumble over the goal line gave the Rockets their fourth touchdown of the afternoon. In the last period, with the ball on the Tornado's five yard line, Ernie Kauffman ran wide around right end for the final score.

Outstanding performers were Burns, Dracha, Guldin, and Montz. The Lancaster game provided a welcome respite before the Knights' game with Lebanon.

LEBANON HOLDS READING (0-0)

Although Reading High out-rushed, out-passed, and out-kicked the Lebanon Cedars, they could not push across a touchdown. Most of the game was played on Lebanon's half of the field, but the strong Cedar forward wall always held in the pinches.

Reading's reputation as a second-half team was cruelly shattered as the Lebanon "Ducks" splashed over a muddy field to throw the Rockets for losses. However, the day was not entirely lost for the large crowd was treated to several spectacular runs by Johnny Montz, Don Gromis, and Harry Hilzinger. Burns also thrilled the crowds with his booming punts.

READING LOSES TO EASTON (21-7)

An injury-riddled Reading High team went down to defeat at the hands of a hard-plunging Easton eleven. The Knights seemed helpless against the crushing power plays of their heavier opponents.

Easton's first touchdown came in the first period on a sustained drive from the forty-two yard line. The Rockets' lone score was made suddenly in the second quarter on a series of four completed passes. George Dracha proved to be too tall for the Easton backfield, in outstretching them to pull down Don Gromis' well-aimed pass over the goal line, making the score 6-7. Rhodes' placement kick knotted the score as the half ended.

In the second half, the Red and Black warriors threatened several times, but Easton was just a little too strong in holding them and scoring two touchdowns for themselves. Reading's passing attack was working perfectly, but Easton's line-smashing halfbacks ran through the entire Reading team to score.

KNIGHTS LOSE TO POTTSVILLE (13-6)

On the dreariest Saturday of the football season, the Knights dropped a close decision in their annual tilt with the Pottsville Terrors. Numerous fumbles characterized the play of both teams. The remarkable distance that the Rockets averaged on their punts was one of the few bright spots of the afternoon.

Fumbles paved the way for every score. Recovering a Terror fumble on Pottsville's twelve yard line, the Rockets tried several line plunges. On last down, Tommy Smith tossed a perfect forward to George Dracha. After the kick-off, the Red Terrors got under way and marched seventy yards for a touchdown. Pottsville's long kicks held Reading in their own territory and late in the third quarter a Rocket fumble was recovered by the Terrors who, three plays later, scored their second touchdown.

With seventeen seniors playing their final game for the Castle on the Hill, Reading ended its 1938 season just one game behind the splendid record set by last year's team. Winning five games, losing three, and tying one, the Red Knights set up a season average of .625.

Reading High's J. V. Rockets turned in a successful season with a record of two wins, one tie, and two losses. The J. V. gridgers, tutored by Coaches Harris and Horine, showed promise of developing into future gridiron stars. Handicapped by their lack of weight, the "Baby" Knights did well to compile a percentage of .500 against heavier opponents. Since the Junior Varsity team is composed entirely of ninth and tenth grade boys, each member has two or three years of varsity competition ahead of him. This greater experience should provide even better Reading High teams in the future.

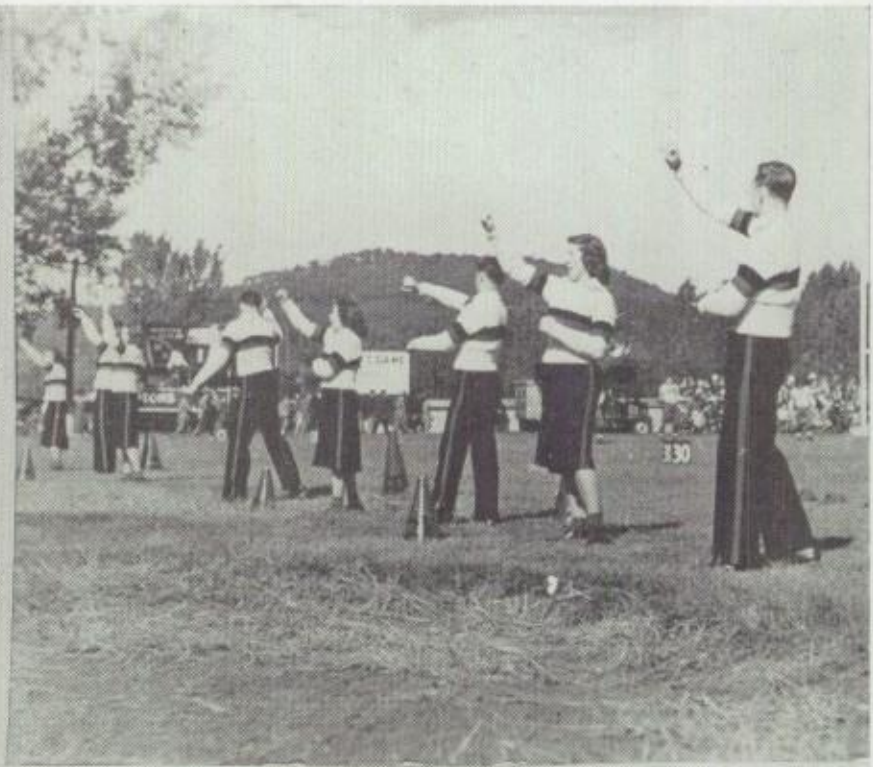

Outstanding performers throughout the season were "Nipper" Missbach, Dick Zerbe, Dick Mattern, and Joe Symanski. Because of the lightness of the squad, a strong passing attack was developed and successfully used against such strong teams as Lebanon and Lancaster.

The Red and Black 1939 basketball team goes down in history as one of the greatest teams ever produced at the Castle on the Hill, advancing to the quarter-finals of the state championship play-offs and winning twenty-two out of twenty-five games. This was the first season in which the Knights operated under the tutelage of Coach Johnny Smith. Rarely has a Red and Black team, playing its first year under a new coach, displayed such an inspired brand of basketball or such a smooth all-around game.

Thomas Patton Trade School was the first victim of the string of nine consecutive opponents to fall before the relentless Raiders. Visiting Norristown for their second start, the Knights trounced the Eagles easily to the tune of 58-31. After their victory at Norristown, Coach Johnny Smith's charges got in a good workout before their first league contest, overwhelming Bethlehem, 43-21. In a sensational last-period uprising during which they poured seventeen points through the hoop, Reading High's clever court combination defeated the William Penn Tigers, 41-29, in their first Central Pennsylvania League contest in which Missbach starred with sixteen points.

Displaying a brand of basketball which featured unselfish passing and cagey shooting, the crack Red Raiders piled up nineteen field goals and seven charity tosses to whip Pottstown, 45-22, in another non-league fray. League competition was resumed with Dick Shollenberger garnering fourteen points to help Reading High roll up its sixth consecutive victory by trouncing York's Roses, 53-26. Although they had difficulty in subduing a pressing John Harris quintet in their next game, the Knights finally came out on top, 29-23. Co-Captain George Dracha and Don Gromis shone with their excellent defensive work.

A furious barrage of twenty-two points by co-Captain Shollenberger aided the Red Knights in overwhelming the feeble opposition of Lebanon Cedars by a score of 51-21. In an amazing reversal of form, Reading High's basketball machine roared from behind with a furious last-half bombardment to flank Steelton, 41-30, for their ninth consecutive victory of the season.

The Raiders' sensational nine-game winning streak on the court came to an end when Allentown eked out a 32-30 victory in an exhibition contest. Returning from their defeat at Allentown, the Knights drubbed Lancaster by the score of 47-23. Reading High's hitherto clean slate in the Central Pennsylvania League was marred in its seventh league contest by William Penn, 34-24.

G. Dracha

BASKETBALL

Playing in the University of Pennsylvania Palestra before 7,000 spectators, the Knights' triumphant march was abruptly halted by the powerful Lower Merion Aces. Coach Johnny Smith's charges were not so weak as the eleven point margin indicated, for the Aces' shooting was uncanny. Don Gromis was the only Reading man to flash any consistent scoring ability. The hustling guard was good for fourteen points which were the result of five field goals and four foul shots.

F. Burns

BASKETBALL

Thus ended the most triumphant basketball season that Reading High has enjoyed in the past twenty-five years. Playing twenty-five games, the Knights won twenty-two of them and scored a total of 1,175 points for an average of forty-seven points per game as against 645 points, or an average of twenty-six points, for their opponents. The varsity combination, comprised of Dick Shollenberger, George Dracha, Don Gromis, Frank Burns, and Hops Guldin, remained intact throughout the season with Dick Missbach and Vic Rhoads turning in sterling performances as varsity substitutes. The unselfish passing and teamwork of each player is best shown by the fact that Dick Shollenberger won the league scoring championship with 175 points, and five other varsity men ranked among the first nineteen scorers.

The Baby Knights completed a record as enviable as that of the varsity quintet by winning sixteen games while losing only three. After losing their first two games, the Reading Jayvees were unbeaten in their next sixteen starts and smashed all opposition to cop the Central Pennsylvania Junior Varsity Championship. The Jayvees lost their last contest to Allentown by a slim one-point margin. This was the second consecutive year that Reading High's Jayvee hoopsters have won the championship of their league.

Outstanding both on the offense and the defense were Bob Harbach, John Szajna, Dick Giles, John Dwight, and Randal Hummel. Next season these same players will probably do much to help carry the Red and Black colors to new heights.

With a few hold-overs from last year's mighty baseball team and many enthusiastic rookies, Coaches Johnny Smith and Hal Rock set about the task of molding a co-operative unit which will try to achieve new honors on the diamond for Reading High.

Early in March two dozen ambitious pitchers and catchers started limbering up their arms in the gym. From these aspiring youths, the coaches weeded out several hurlers. Bill Keller, Al Pondo, Lefty Angstadt, and Bobby Erwin are sure starters. The bases were covered by George Dracha on first, Dick Shollenberger on second and John Szajna at the hot corner. Frankie Burns completes the infield at shortstop. Bobby Gresh patrols right field with Joe Syzmanski and Connie Sadowski alternating in center and Bill Rhodes holding down the left field spot. Captain Eddie Mahosky keeps an eye on the team from behind the bat.

Only three games were played before this book went to press and from all indications the season will be successful.

Reading High's track and field squad, coached by Mr. Jacobs and Mr. Boyles, opened its 1939 season with the annual Penn Relays at Philadelphia on Saturday, April 29. The relay team, composed of Ernie Carter, Johnny Montz, Bo Fisher, John McKnight, and Johnny Smith, alternate, turned in an outstanding victory, defeating such strong teams as York, Bethlehem, and Allentown.

A squad of eighty-five hopefuls is still limbering up at George Field in preparation for the first meet with Bethlehem, May 9. The Red Knights face a schedule similar to last year's campaign, engaging in eight meets climaxed by the traditional Memorial Day meet at George Field.

Outstanding candidates for the weight events are "Legs" Kramer, Russ Halteman, Earl Ulrich, and Ed Greaser. Stan Askey shines in broadjumping and Emil Duplak seems headed for a spot in the pole vault.

As a whole, the squad is shaping up well and seems headed toward new honors for the Castle on the Hill.

In winning the Annual Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Cross-Country Meet at Pottsville, the Reading High cross-country squad ended another successful season. Losing only one contest while winning seven, the hill-and-dalers compiled an average of .875. Paced by Carter, Markley, McKnight, Moore, and Yocum, the 1938 Red and Black Cross-Country team completed one of their best seasons in bringing home their third consecutive trophy from the annual Pottsville run.

In the Lansford run, the squad suffered its only set-back, losing by the close score of 29-26.

Coach Jacobs and Coach Boyles are to be congratulated on turning out another winning squad.

Leroy Jones successfully made his debut as coach of the Castle Booters by leading a green squad through a season in which they won four games, tied two, and lost two. Early in the season, Reading High's hopes faded as Tom Kennedy and Ted Boucher were lost to the squad for the remainder of the season; however, Captain Bobby Gresh, Earl Whirl, Jack Toker, and Earl Fizz, veterans of two seasons, were the nucleus about which Coach Jones built his team.

Opening the season against Mt. Penn, the Knights easily won to the tune of 5-0; however, in their second game, Muhlenberg High held them to a scoreless tie, on a muddy pitch.

The booters traveled to Bethlehem for their next tilt, only to lose by the score of 2-0. Winning from their next two opponents, Lancaster and Wyomissing, the Red and Black soccer players again met Bethlehem; and this time the contest ended with the score knotted at 1-1. Once again the Knights lost a hard fought battle when Girard College copped a heart breaker by the score of 1-0. The season ended with the Reading High team on the long end of a 5-1 score in their second game with Lancaster.

Many of the players will return next year, and Coach Jones has high hopes of turning out another winning team.

With forty-two players turning out at Coach Wisler's call for candidates, the 1939 tennis season got under way. Nine players were selected from this group. They were J. Dwight, S. Granger, R. Freeman, M. Schneider, C. Ruttenberg, H. Bucher, R. Harbach, N. Hill, and H. Hyman.

The Knights opened their season against the Lebanon racqueteers downing them easily, 6-1. Dwight, Granger, Freeman, and Bucher won their singles matches while Harbach lost a difficult three set match to his more experienced opponent. The Knights also had very little trouble in the two doubles matches played.

Coach Wisler has high hopes of continuing the outstanding record set by teams of past years. In the last three seasons, the Knights have lost to only one opponent.

TABLE TENNIS

Although Don Quarles and Steve Stevens played only one official contest under the sponsorship of Reading High School, they succeeded in winning the United States interscholastic table tennis championship. Never before in the history of the school has a Reading High athletic team won a national championship. Captain Quarles had little trouble in winning his first matches 21-8, 21-6 while Stevens polished off his opponent 21-8, 21-14. Quarles and Stevens then teamed to beat Bacon and Finchbough 21-11, 21-19 in the first round doubles.

Stiffer competition was met in the round-robin finals but the local lad succeeded in downing Northeast High of Philadelphia 3 to 2.

Stevens dropped his next singles match to Pace 20-22, 21-15, 21-16, but Quarles kept the Knights in the running at this crucial moment by trimming Linder, Philadelphia's ace paddler, 21-17, 21-16. Pace also fell before the relentless Don Quarles 22-20, 20-17. Again Quarles teamed with Stevens to win the national title from the Philadelphians 21-7, 26-24. Reading High's number two aggregation also won national honors in their class, 3-0, by beating St. Joseph's and Marble High. The second team was comprised of James DeVage and Carl DeGour.

CHEER LEADERS

"Go get 'em, Red and Black!" For the first time in the history of the Castle on the Hill, our cheers were led by both girl and boy cheerleaders. And what a difference the addition of these girls made! In all athletic contests and assemblies, there was more school spirit shown than ever before. The appearance of these eight nattily clad cheerleaders in their new uniforms added much color wherever they appeared.

Close co-operation among Mr. Cardin, the marching band, and the cheerleaders has achieved really excellent results and has made the school proud to have such organizations. Mr. Cardin is to be congratulated on the fine work he has done, not only musically, but also in bringing our cheerleading squad up to a par with other schools.

SWING YELL

A pass to the right,
A plunge to the left,
Truck on down thru the center of the line.
With a swing and sway
And a razzle dazzle play
We'll pile up the score
With the old hey! hey!

(Sing to the tune of "A Tisket, A Tasket.")

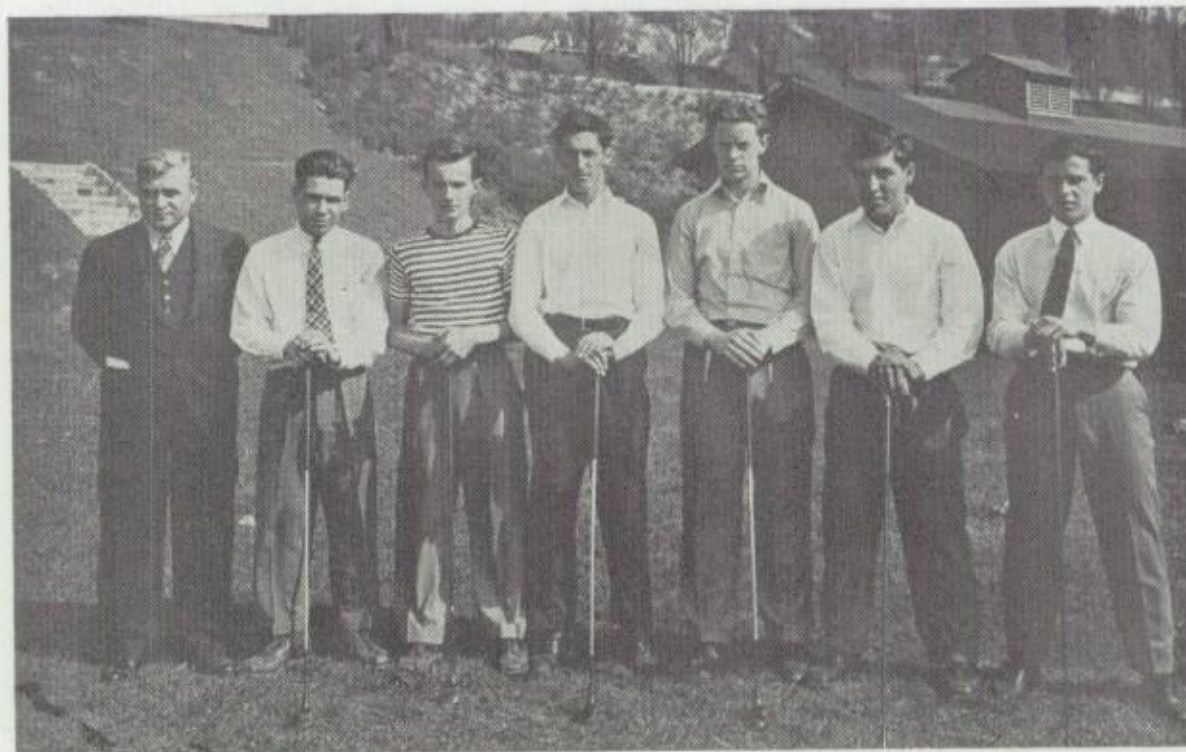

A touchdown, a touchdown,
We're cheering for a touchdown.
Just watch those Rockets sock that line
And push the pigskin over.
They're speedy, they're clever,
"The stuff is there" whenever
The other team puts up a fight
They put their heads together.
They're truckin' on down to Touchdown Town
With passes flying all around.
Just watch those halfbacks run the ends
To make the next play
First and ten.
A touchdown, a touchdown,
We're cheering for a touchdown.
Just watch those Rockets sock that line
And beat old *Allentown.

The Knights of the links opened their season on April 17th against Abington after several weeks of intensive practice. Led by Johnny Markel, who so far has won every match, the Raiders have won two out of their first four matches, defeating Palmerton and Lancaster while losing to Abington and Hershey.

The squad consists of Markel, Avanzato, Franco, Reber, and Scholl. Coach Brucher feels that although the squad began with a slow start, the team will keep improving as the season advances.

The only senior on the squad is Scholl; and, therefore, four experienced men will be left to carry the Red and Black colors next year. The number one man on the team, Johnny Markel, is Berks County golf champion and is, therefore, especially qualified to lead the Knights against opposing schools.

Even though the delayed physical examinations and the tubercular tests kept many a hockey enthusiast from signing for this sport, fifty-seven girls turned out for another exciting season. The eleventh graders, with twenty-nine girls, had the largest number of representatives. There were sixteen girls from the twelfth grade and twelve from tenth grade.

The girls elected Violet Bagor manager of the hockey league and Edna Schilling assistant manager. Because the number was not sufficient to necessitate the formation of class teams, two teams were organized with girls from the various classes on each. The teams were evenly balanced with players of various calibres. Marie Farina was elected captain of Team 1, while Edna Schilling was elected captain of Team 2.

Only one game was played in the preliminary league, and this was won by Team 1. In the final league, both Team 1 and Team 2 won one game; the third game ended in a 1-1 deadlock, and the championship was undecided. Marie Farina and Helen Rzesutek, both center forwards, scored the highest number of goals for their respective teams. All the girls put forth their best efforts and regretted the closing of this enjoyable hockey season. Twenty-seven girls earned their one hundred point felt letters. Of these girls, ten were seniors, ten were juniors, and seven were sophomores.

A group of eighty-four girls reported to make the soccer season a grand success. Of these girls, sixteen were from the twelfth grade, thirty-three from the eleventh, and thirty-five from the tenth.

Mildred Blessing was elected manager of the soccer leagues, with Althea Mack assisting. One team was formed from each class, and these teams were retained throughout the preliminary and final leagues. Ethel Erb, Grace Montz, and Irene Cichowicz were elected captains of the twelfth, eleventh, and tenth grade teams respectively.

After a few practices, teams were organized and the girls entered whole-heartedly into the preliminary league. This league ended in a tie between the eleventh and twelfth grade teams. However, in the final league, the eleventh graders easily won the championship.

Immediately after soccer season ended, twenty-four girls reported for the first speedball practice. Speedball is a combination of football, basketball, and soccer. It is a very interesting game and the girls will be eagerly looking forward to playing the game next year.

Thirty-six girls were awarded their one hundred point felt letters.

The 1938-1939 girls' basketball season opened with a bang! Eighty-four basketball fans signed up for the sport and were organized into teams. The girls, with plenty of pep, vim, and vitality, indulged in heavy practice for the Preliminary League games.

Ruth Sheidy and Jane Gable were elected student managers for the season. Geraldine Keys, Mildred Blessing, and Florence Dalack were chosen captains for the twelfth, eleventh, and tenth grades, respectively. The coaches did such a fine job of drilling the girls in basketball technique that the less-experienced girls formed stiff competition for the seniors.

One of the most spectacular games of the basketball season was the final battle between the seniors and the "greenies" for the championship. The half of this closely-matched game ended in a tie, 13-13. Then the seniors rallied and snatched the game out of the fire, the final score being 26-23. Teamwork, experience, and luck were on the side of the seniors.

Victory assured the seniors of the championship while it sank the "greenies" into second place. The junior team, which lost most of its games by only a few points, occupied the cellar position.

Florence Dalack and Ruth Strassner were the "spark plugs" of the "greenie" team. Violet Bagor and Bette Jones were the high scorers for the senior team, while Jane Gable and May Giacci made the most markers for the juniors.

The season, which ended all too quickly, was very successful.

The scores of the Final League were as follows:

February 16	12 vs. 11	18-17
February 20	12 vs. 10	23-26
February 23	11 vs. 10	30-21

A squad of fifty-two girls reported for volleyball in March. These girls elected Josephine Barr as manager and Jane Hiester as assistant.

Four teams, with thirteen girls on each team, were formed for the Preliminary League. Eleanor Moyer, Marie Farina, Bettie Jones, and Violet Bagor were chosen captains of these teams. After each team played the other team twice in the preliminaries, Team 2, under the captaincy of Marie Farina, emerged with four victories and one defeat to be declared the stars of the Preliminary League.

In the Final League, all the girls who attended two-thirds of the practices and games made their class teams. Violet Bagor, senior; Doris DeLong, junior; and Florence Dalack, sophomore, were elected by their teammates to lead the way to victory. The seniors started the Final League with success—for they defeated the greenies by a score of 24-18.

Strike! One! Two! Three! You're out! This was the umpire's cry as girls' baseball season opened.

Although the baseball season started later than was expected because of the weather conditions, forty-four girls registered for this sport. The enthusiasm shown was unusually high.

At one of their first indoor meetings, Althea Mack was elected manager, with Frances Rudolph as assistant.

Under these students' capable leadership with the aid of Miss Wadsworth and Miss Brumbach, the season proved to be a great success.

Every Monday and Wednesday, the feminine "Babe Ruths" and "Lou Gehrigs" practiced batting and other baseball techniques. Then three class teams were formed from the eligible girls.

The Preliminary League started on May 10. In this league, each team was allowed to play the other only once. After the Preliminary League ended, the Final League began promptly. It was not possible to play many games in this league because of the limited time. The girls showed much improvement and gave stiff competition to their class opponents.

The call of the fresh spring breezes and the lure of the tennis courts had its effect upon sixty girls of Reading High School. The eleventh grade class showed the most interest in tennis, for thirty-five juniors signed up for the sport. Ten seniors and fifteen greenies also turned out for tennis.

At one of the first meetings, Geraldine Keys was elected manager. An elimination tournament, conducted on an individual competition basis, was planned.

The tennis fans were divided into two groups. One group consisted of the better or more experienced players, while the other was termed the beginning group. For the beginners, lessons in serving, scoring, and various tennis fundamentals were taught. The experienced girls received coaching for improving their game and for developing their own individual style of playing.

The girls were allowed to play tennis during their gym period, making themselves more "fit" to meet their competitors. Besides, many of them practiced two afternoons a week after school hours. With these extra practices and the efficient teaching of Miss McHose, the tennis season proved to be an interesting one.

All those girls who attended and participated in two-thirds of the practices as well as played a minimum of five matches in the tournament received fifty points and a black felt "R."

This year's swimming proved very popular with the aquatic-minded girls of Reading High. Under the direction of Miss Wadsworth, lessons were given at the Y. W. C. A. every Thursday afternoon at 4:15. The group was composed of sixty girls. The eleventh graders, with twenty-eight girls, had the largest representation; eighteen mermaids reported from the twelfth grade, and fourteen from the tenth grade.

The water stars were divided into three groups according to ability: beginners, intermediates, and advanced. Special achievement tests for each group were given at the end of six lessons. The beginners' test included floating on face for ten seconds, floating on back for one minute, changing body position—back and front, swimming twenty yards in good form, and performing a plain front dive from side of pool—then swimming to the other side.

To pass the intermediate test, the girls had to swim the crawl in good form for twenty yards; swim backstroke in good form for twenty yards; perform plain front or racing dive; recover an object in six to eight feet of water by means of a surface dive; and dive in, swim, float and tread water without touching a support for five minutes.

The advanced group had more difficult tests to pass. They had to swim the crawl for eighty yards; swim racing backstroke in good form; perform a plain front and an optional dive; dive from the surface recovering an object three times; carry a tired swimmer thirty feet preceded by a thirty-foot swim; float, tread or swim for ten minutes without touching a support; and administer artificial respiration for three minutes.

In March, Play Day was held. The committee in charge included the following: Mary Teeples, chairman; Florence Hawk, Marie Ernesto, Florence Dalack, and Helen Sokol. Many interesting games such as a balloon game, Chinese tag, call ball, and a cork race were featured. The more experienced swimmers participated in follow-the-leader and volleyball. At the conclusion of this entertaining program, a plunge period was held for all the members.

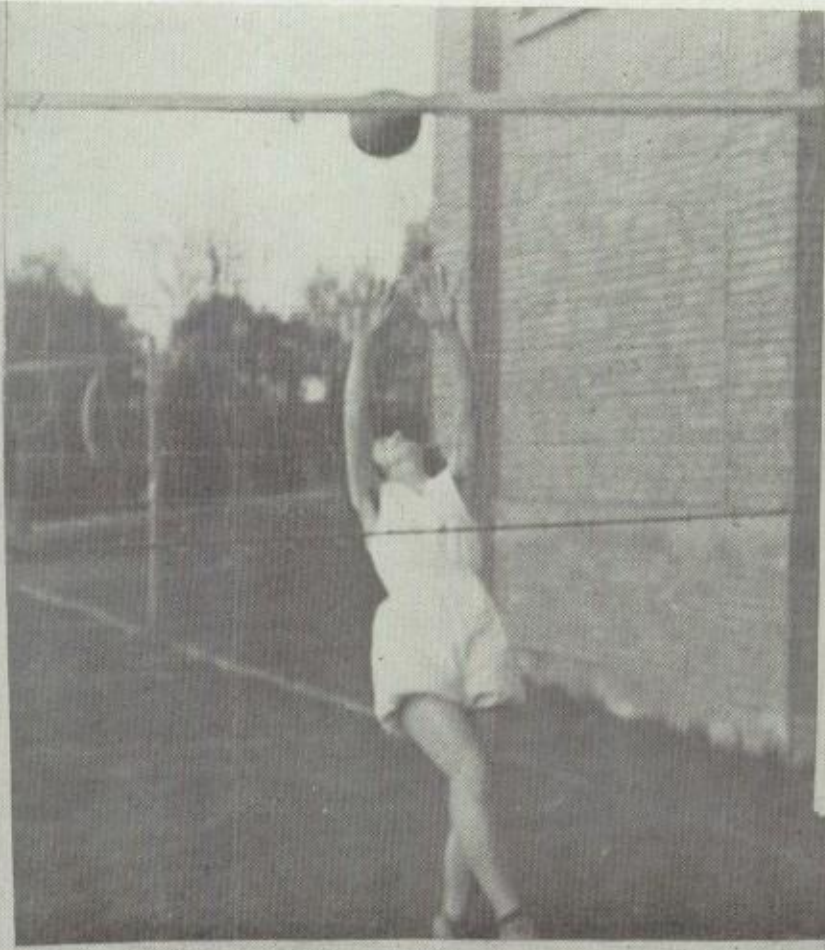

The entire swimming season was very successful this year.

FROM time immemorial, human beings have gazed into the heavens and wondered at the handiwork of the Creator. And as they wondered, they attempted to fathom its meaning. What did they see?

Astounded by the magnitude and the beauty, some thought only of its influence on them and turned to the astrologers for interpretation and help. In derision, Isaiah said to the people of his time: "Let the astrologers come forward now, let the star-gazers save you now, who calculate the future month by month!"

Others looking at the same heavens in wonderment have thought with Plato: "Astronomy compels the soul to look upwards and leads us from this world to another." Still others have followed Galileo in peering into the heavens through the telescope to study the science of the universe.

But what do you see? Your destiny written in the stars? Glorious prospects of life in another world? A physical curiosity compelling further investigation?

My wish is that, as you look upward in the night and gaze with admiration, you may see the marvelous handiwork of the God who also made you as beautiful and as lovely as the heavens.

V.P. WILLIAM L. FINK

I REMEMBER, as a boy, coming frequently in contact with a kindly old gentleman, a scholar, a student of the stars. Nightly, when the stars shone, with his ancient telescope he would scan the sky, behold the grandeur of the constellations, and write that glory into books that thrilled mankind with their simplicity, their beauty, and their truth.

The stars, for my astronomer friend, were fraught with meaning. They impressed him with the order and the Majesty of the universe. They inspired; they neither inclined nor compelled. With Cassius of old, my friend frequently exclaimed: "The fault, dear Brutus, is not in our stars but in ourselves."

Travelers of an elder time, without benefit of chart or compass, were not dismayed when there were a few bright stars to guide. As you sail the future's uncertain seas, may your skies be ever studded with those stars of unselfish service that point the way to abiding satisfaction and real success.

V. P. FLORENCE B. BEITENMAN

I N older days you would have chosen a motto to fit your theme, possibly Per aspera ad astro, which means practically "over rocky roads to the stars."

Emerson put the same idea into "Hitch your wagon to a star." Today he might have phrased it, "Gear your car to the stars."

Stars have always played an important part in man's life, symbols of purity, beauty, calm, idealism. They have spread out before the admiring eyes of hundreds of early shepherds guarding their flocks by night, they have guided thousands of sailors across smooth and stormy seas; a star is the core of the most beautiful Bethlehem story. For the ordinary mortal a beautiful star-lit night has great fascination.

The astrology of earlier centuries reversed the telescope and focused stars on man. Astronomy turns the telescope away from man but in such a way that he can see the magnificent sweep and wonder of the world beyond him. Distances are measured not in miles but in light-years, and sometimes the merely human intelligence gasps at the vast spaces.

Can you walk a straight line? Try fixing your eyes on a distant object, ignoring the immediate vicinity. The man who watches only a foot or two ahead wobbles.

The message of the stars is just that: Keep your eyes on a distant aim and go steadily toward it. Per aspera! Yes, certainly. The roads are likely to be rocky, but if the goal is definite and sure, who minds a few stones.
